Marche

Marche was long kept from realizing its full potential as a premium wine-growing area by poverty and geography; even with the relative prosperity of recent decades and the improvements in communication lines, Marche is still off the beaten track, but it has been recognised as the New Tuscany. The ar... Read More

Verdicchio

Verdicchio is one of Italy's classic white grape varieties, responsible for the much-vaunted Verdicchios - di Matelica and Castelli dei Jesi. Less famously, it is also often used as a high quality component for many Italian white blends from regions such as Marche and Umbria, to name just two. It ha... Read More

TASTING NOTES

Shiny golden colour wine with an intense and an interesting nose of ripe and tropical fruits, sweet notes of honey, linden blossom, spicy and citrus fruit notes, licorice root and almonds. It is very well-balanced in the mouth, while full-bodied it retains it's freshness and strong sapidity. The pronounced aromas and flavours have a lingering iodate finish.
